Decking the decking

Nusa Lembongan, the new 'IN' place for those that want to get off-island from an island...go figure! Just east of Bali is Lembongan, the most popular of the three Nusa islets, Penida, Lembongan and the smaller sister, Ceningan. Top sanctuary on the island is Batu Karang Resort & Day Spa; luxury villas with waves, beach view and spa...and here maybe I should mention the sun setting behind Bali's Gunung Agung, not visible from Bali! Recently BKR added to their already upper-deck lifestyle by creating The Deck Cafe & Bar - serving gourmet baguettes, panninis, pies, pastries, pizzas, salads.. and the ever-so tempting home-baked cakes... and sweets. Gelato ice cream, ice cold beer and awesome cocktails as the sun sets behind Bali's most famous volcano is something one doesn't even have a time to write a postcard home about. Carpe Diem!

Trotting out the Bistrot

From 17th century Paris to the shores of Bali and into the capable hands of restaurateur Daniel Vanneque of The Living Room fame, Bistrot L'Entrecote (originally made renowned by the Gineste de Saur's family in 1959) is ready to help us stake out the steaks and fry out the frites with lashings of black peppercorn or Béarnaise sauce. This 'in homage to', street-side eating venue open for lunch, serving salad, steak and - you guessed it - french fries, all for Rp.95k++ (there is grilled catch of the day if you don't do meat) with desserts being served 'a la carte'. Heading up the Bistrot's kitchen is Marc Francois who is, of course, in charge of keeping the authentic, authentic. Just one word of warning, and in authentic Bistrot-style - no reservations required or allowed! Look out for the wine-coloured awning halfway down Jl. Lasmana.

El Kabron

'Cabron' in Spanish can either be complementary or abusive - this cliff-top Spanish, hacienda-style chiringuito (eatery), has wooed the Seminyak crew and won! Chef Marc Torices, of the three-Michelin-starred resto of Sant Pau in Barcelona, has donned his hat and is cooking up a veritable smorgasbord of all things Iberian. Apart from the outstanding food, the view plays just as much a part in making El Kabron a memorable, weekly-must-do on everyone's sunset dance card. Cliff-top - watch as the sun slips as easily into the sea as the caipirinha or sangria slips between sun worshippers' lips. This new venue is so amazing that, in the complementary sense of the word, one has to say Cabron!
